Battle Develops In Legislature on Spending Powers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A head-to-head battle developed in the Ohio Legislature today on the Legislature's control over spending by state departments.

Republican leaders in the Democratic-dominated 103rd General Assembly shouted "foul" at their first realization that Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle is proposing a lump-sum type of appropriation to finance operation of various state departments in the next two years.

A joint protest statement came from Senate Minority Leader C. Stanley Mechem and House Minority Leader Roger Cloud as lawmakers gathered for their 12th work week.

But before their joint statement was issued, House Speaker James A. Lantz (D-Fairfield) told House committee chairmen to start DiSalle's tax program through House channels. Taxation Committee Chairman A. G. Lancione (D-Belmont) reported tax increases on cigarettes, 3.2 beer and corporation franchises probably will be recommended this week—and possibly a two-cent boost in gasoline and diesel fuel levies.

Lantz warned the Democrats to stick together, adding: "If we succumb to efforts to divide and conquer, we could come down to the end of the session with no program at all."

DiSalle replied that his finance director followed a path laid out by the Republican O'Neill administration.

"In so doing," DiSalle said in a prepared statement, "he was not only in agreement with professional studies of state fiscal matters over the years, but also with the apparent plans of the previous administration."

"If it is the desire of the legislative body to ignore these recommendations I will not oppose it in the preparation of the appropriation bill in another form, although I do severely question the wisdom of such action."

The hassle over the form of the budget was late in developing simply because busy legislators hadn't had time to look at the budget bill presented three weeks ago. But they screamed bloody murder when they got their first look at the official bill printed Thursday.

The proposed budget bill—not the budget itself, which is a separate document—abandons itemized appropriations for state departments and agencies and substitutes lump-sum appropriations. It gives the director of finance the authority to decide how each department's appropriation should be spent over the two-year period.

"How would you ever amend the bill," Cloud asked newsmen, "if you disapproved of a single proposed expenditure?"

In past budget bills, items of expense in each department's allowance have been stated separately, such as salaries, other services, maintenance, office expense, supplies, travel, etc. Each item occupied one line, making it easy for legislators to increase or slash various expense items by amendment.

But the DiSalle budget bill, prepared by Finance Director James Malone, swings over to the "program-type" appropriation which, instead of items, lists only the annual appropriation for the operation of each department. Like this:

Department of Mental Hygiene
1959 - 60 1960 - 61 Bien nium

total Operation Expenses
$13,140,839 $13,709,024 $26,930,863
And that's all.

The Mechem-Cloud statement asserted:

"If the Legislature does this, it will be giving away its only effective method of control of state expenditures; delegating its constitutional responsibility for such control to the state finance director; . . . leaving the governor and his finance director in a position to be subjected to great pressure for increases in expenditures."

"To propose that the Legislature renounce its constitutional prerogatives in this manner is to indicate a lack of confidence in legislative judgment and would give much greater authority to the executive branch of government than it ever had before."

We are unwilling entirely to agree to a gross weakening of legislative appropriative authority."

In routine sessions Monday night the House passed and sent to the Senate five bills to broaden the lending power of building and loan associations.

The Senate defeated on a 14-14 tie vote a bill to make motor fuel used in highway repair and construction subject to motor fuel taxes.

It was the second bill defeated on the Senate floor this session. The first, a measure by Sen. Ross Pepple (R - Allen) to establish memorial day as the last Monday in May, was revived Monday night. A motion to reconsider the vote by which it was defeated Wednesday was left pending.

Mac Leaves, Pleased with Ike Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan headed for home after his talks with President Eisenhower today predicting "we shall succeed" in negotiations over Berlin.

He conceded the West faces "a tough task" in dealing with the Soviet Union.

Macmillan left in apparent confidence that the strategy or negotiations leading toward a summit conference, worked out with Eisenhower, will avert a military showdown over Berlin.

In a departure statement at the airport he recalled that he had said on arrival here Thursday that disputes between the Soviet Union and the Western powers should be settled "by negotiation and not by force."

"I have no doubt," he said today, "that so long as we stand firmly by our principles—as we shall do—the free world has everything to gain from being ready to negotiate."

In his discussions with Eisenhower, Macmillan is reported to have outlined his personal view that Western leaders should look forward to not just one but a number of East-West summit conferences. However, he concentrated on getting the President's agreement to project a summit session for the summer, following up an East-West foreign ministers meeting which now seems virtually certain to open at Geneva May 11.

Even before then, these moves are in prospect:

1. The United States, Britain and France are due to send notes to the Soviet Union soon about arrangements for the proposed meeting of foreign ministers. The foreign ministers would try to reach constructive agreements on German problems and related issues so that their work would justify the subsequent summit conference at a time and place they would select.

2. Ministers of the chief Western powers—the United States, Britain, France and West Germany—will meet next week for a further detailed discussion of their plans for negotiation with the Soviets in advance of a ministerial meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council here April 2.

Judge Plans Ruling On Sanity of Slayer Of Daughter-in-Law

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — A judge is expected to rule today on whether convicted murderer Elizabeth Duncan was sane when she hired two tavern roustabouts to kidnap and strangle her pregnant daughter-in-law.

Superior Court Judge Charles F. Blackstock will decide Mrs. Duncan's sanity on the basis of reports already submitted by two court-appointed psychiatrists.

A jury of eight women and four men convicted the plump, matronly Mrs. Duncan of first degree murder and set the penalty at death in the gas chamber at San Quentin prison.

Mrs. Duncan, 54, had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

During the month-long trial, the state contended that an intense jealousy of her son Frank's bride, Olga, caused Mrs. Duncan to mastermind the 30-year-old nurse's death.

LOSES FIGHT FOR LIFE — William Welch and his pregnant wife, Elice, struggle in their canoe as they were swept over a dam in the swirling Charles river, near Watertown, Mass. 'Devil's Hole' Claims Life Of British Student-Explorer

BUXTON, England (AP) — An Oxford freshman trapped for nearly two days in a rock crevice 1,000 feet underground died today after rescuers repeatedly had failed in a desperate struggle to free him.

Reckless Driver Is Just a Bully

Psychiatrist Says Criminal Bent Possible

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Are you a showoff driver? Maybe you're showing more than you realize—about what makes you tick.

If you're always taking corners on two wheels or burning rubber in sensational getaways, look out. Folks in the know believe they can spot you for what you are: an immature, antisocial, sexually inferior, angry bully.

And maybe a budding criminal. A Los Angeles psychiatrist says you may not be all of those things. There's a good chance, though, that you're some of them. Deep down, you probably know it yourself.

Reckless drivers often use their car as an outlet for angry, aggressive feelings, says Dr. Jerome M. Kummer. Kummer is with the UCLA Medical Center. He spoke at a safety meeting Monday.

Are you a hotrod type? Then, Kummer says, it may be you're trying to cover up feelings of sexual inadequacy.

This applies both with teen-age boys and their fathers gunning what Kummer calls "hotrods of a more sophisticated type"—sports cars.

Many of the qualities leading to persistent showoff driving are of a criminal nature, the psychiatrist believes.

"And, let's face it," Kummer says, "Reckless driving is a criminal activity."

deepest cave. He had been unconscious since Sunday night but early today had been reported breathing "quite well" with the aid of oxygen administered to him at intervals.

Police announced his death as Britain tensely followed the heart-breaking rescue attempt here in the English Midlands.

The husky, 170-pound collegian's shoulders were wedged so tight 40 feet down in the S-shaped rock shaft that four attempts to pull him free Monday failed. A rope slipped under his limp arms broke each time.

Rescuers tried to work from both ends of the hollow shaft holding Moss captive.

June Bailey, a 5-foot blonde weighing only 106 pounds wriggled her way down into the funnel but gave up after six hours. She said she got within sight of Moss but was driven back by foul air.

Another route to the trapped student was sought by Bob Laakey, a cave expert for 30 years. Wearing a frogman suit, he searched for a subterranean stream through which he might approach the bottom of the shaft to help work Moss free from below.

"Moss is stuck in a sort of hollow corkscrew," one rescue worker explained. "The only way to free him will be to revolve his body in the hole—to unscrew him."

Moss son of a cotton executive, went exploring in the cave with several friends on Sunday but strayed from the party. The cave is under a Derbyshire hillside owned by the royal family on the foot ground—circling around an underground lake.

Some of the tunnels are only a grounds of historic Peveril Castle.

Moss' cries of "Help me! I'm stuck!" at 1 p.m. Sunday brought others in the party to the crevice in which he had fallen.

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—Clermont County still has no treasurer to succeed John P. Friend Jr., who resigned Wednesday after state auditors found his accounts short $48,747. The three commissioners met again today to seek agreement on an appointee. Each commissioner nominated a different prospect Monday, but each proposal failed for lack of a seconding motion.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The former administrator of Maumee Valley Hospital, released Monday from Toledo State Hospital is behind bars in the Lucas County Jail today on an embezzlement charge.

John David Swaggerty was sent to the hospital Oct. 9 after four psychiatrists testified in probate court that he was mentally ill.

Last January, the state auditor's office reported that $20,832 in Maumee Valley Hospital funds had been either spent illegally or embezzled while Swaggerty was administrator.

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Nine-year-old Janet Tolhurst of Fremont, her face bitten Monday by a police dog, is in fair condition today in Wood County Hospital.

The dog attacked her in the yard of Mrs. Luther Kenner of nearby Pemberville, Janet's aunt. The girl underwent more than three hours of surgery for the severe wounds.

Janet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tolhurst.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to increase the amount which the Agriculture Department can spend during the rest of the current school year for the special school milk program.

Under present law, the department can spend 75 million dollars. The bill passed Monday would increase this to 78 million dollars.

LONDON (AP) — Ten-month-old Siamese twins Timothy and Jeremy Thackeray, separated in a delicate 9½ hour operation, remained in critical condition today.

Hospital authorities had warned after Monday night's surgery that it might be several days before doctors could tell whether the twins, born joined at the head, would survive.

The twins were born three weeks premature last May to Mrs. Reginald Thackeray, 35, wife of a suburban bank manager. A third boy born with them, Peter, is normal.

The Thackerays have a fourth son, Christopher, 3.

Suslov led a five-man Soviet parliamentary delegation here.

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Bowing to public protests, the government has decided to tone down a bill that would have given it power to arrest and hold virtually anyone.

The bill was aimed at crushing the African National party, which was outlawed a month ago after demonstrations by its militantly nationalist members had resulted in violence in neighboring Northern Rhodesia.

New Orleans Cop Tieup Is Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carlos Marcello, branded in Senate rack-ets committee testimony as a Mafia mobster running police protected rackets in the South, invoked the Fifth Amendment 35 times in 15 minutes today.

The alleged baron of the New Orleans underworld refused to answer questions about his occupation, sources of income, and associations with William Coci, the sheriff of Jefferson Parish, La. The parish includes part of New Orleans but is separate from the city's government. No one has accused any New Orleans city officials of wrongdoing.

Marcello's lawyers, Jack Wasserman and David Carliner, demanded that the committee cross-examine Aaron Kohn, managing director of the Metropolitan New Orleans Crime Commission who had denounced both Marcello and Sheriff Coci in testimony Monday.

The lawyers requested that Kohn be asked whether he has any personal knowledge that Marcello is linked with the Mafia, a secret society of criminals, or has bribed either Coci or the parish's former sheriff Frank (King) Clancy.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D - Ark.), ruled that some of the questions "would be appropriate," but said they would be asked only if Marcello agreed to answer questions about them.

This Marcello refused to do, pleading that answers "might tend to incriminate me."

"You don't want to testify," McClellan snapped at Marcello. "But you want others to testify. Do you want to be fair? Are you willing to tell the truth?"

"I'm willing," Marcello blurted out, then paused briefly and continued, "to speak to my counsel."

They whispered together and Marcello then announced he was "willing to consider it after Kohn is cross-examined."

"Then you'll have to consider it a long time," McClellan retorted. He instructed the committee counsel, Robert F. Kennedy, to pursue the questioning of Marcello.

The labor-management committee also summoned underworld figure Mickey Cohen of Los Angeles in its quest for evidence of an interstate racketeering conspiracy. Cohen insists he has broken with the crime world.

Family Mine Blast Kills 9 Relatives

ONEIDA, Tenn. (AP) — This small east Tennessee town, where kinship bonds are strong, was hit hard by an explosion in a family mine that killed nine.

All nine men killed Monday in the mining accident at Robbins, 15 miles south of here, were related by blood or marriage. The victims all lived in or near Oneida, the Scott County seat.

"Every one of them was related to me except Elmer Phillips," said Lee West, director of the Oneida Funeral Home. "And he was related to my wife."

A spark from an electric motor is believed to have caused a pocket of gas to explode shortly while the mine ventilating system was turned off over the weekend.

W. O. West, a partner in the small truck operation, was the only witness and the only survivor. He was standing at the mine tippie, where he heard the explosion and saw smoke roll out of the mine shaft.

His brother and partner, Oscar, 47, was one of the victims.

The blast was the worst Tennessee mine accident since 19 men died in an explosion near LaFollette in 1943. It left townspeople in Oneida with little to say.

"The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away," one woman murmured. "But you're never ready. You're never ready."

The victims were Oscar West; another partner, Burl Phillips 52, and his two sons, Hubert, 30 and Arzo, 17; Bernard, 33, and William Yancey, 36, brothers; John L. Pike, 46; Elmer Phillips, 38; and Ed Chitwood, 50.

Thefts of 65 Chickens, Big Pot Seen Related

Taken: 65 chickens from a butcher, and from a store down the street a copper pot big enough to cook them in.

Monday on charges that gangsters have taken over control of much of the coin-operated machine business in the New Orleans area, in part through alliances with corrupt public officials.

The committee left unanswered whether it also would call William Coci, sheriff of Louisiana's Jefferson Parish (County), a New Orleans suburb. Coci, whose name was linked with Marcello's in testimony Monday, was described as a one-time reform candidate who has since led "a very aggressive anti-good government movement."

Witnesses swore that in Jefferson Parish Marcello has found a haven from trouble with the law while building a rackets empire that extends into Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, and Arkansas.

Marcello was named by the old Senate Crime Investigating committee in 1953 as one of the nation's principal criminals with a record of many arrests but few convictions because witnesses feared to testify against him. The government is trying to deport him as a convicted big time trafficker in marijuana.

Bolder Space Program Asked

Strategist Urging Maneuverable Craft

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A top level Defense Department strategist has proposed that the nation launch a program for a man-space vehicle that would be maneuverable like an airplane.

David A. Young, chief of the Technology Division of the Advanced Research Projects Agency, told the opening session of the American Rocket Society's flight testing conference Monday that a "go for broke" campaign could ready a maneuverable, recoverable space vehicle within three years.

Young called his space ship program Mrs-V (pronounced missus-vee). He told newsmen before his speech that the government is giving only "lip service" to Project Mercury—the man in space program.

"We're not stepping up the man in space program as rapidly as we should," Young told the 700 missile engineers and scientists attending the two-day conference.

Young described the Mrs-V as a type of space plane carrying a 20,000-pound capsule for space passengers that could be lifted aloft by a half-million-pound thrust engine.

If the project was started on a top priority basis, he said, it would run parallel with the man in space program.

The program, which would cost about 300 or 400 million dollars, would consist of firing the ship high in space where it would be able to maneuver in flight and later return to earth.

"We are dwelling too long on the fringes of real space activity and are not pushing with proper speed the critical and rewarding aspects of space," Young warned.

The Mrs-V program, he said, at present is only a "collection of ideas largely unaccepted by planners."

U.S. Says Evidence Shows Red Trawler Broke Sea Cables

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rejecting a Soviet protest, the United States contends it has evidence strongly indicating a Soviet trawler broke five transatlantic cables last month.

In a note to the Kremlin Monday, the United States said Moscow had no basis for protesting the boarding of the Soviet trawler Novorossisk by a U.S. Navy party of Newfoundland Feb. 26.

After a brief search of the trawler, the Navy group commander said there was "no indication of intentions other than fishing."

Monday's note did not allege any willful cable cutting, but said the vessel's trawling cable, used in fishing, was long enough to reach bottom. It said broken sections of the trawling cable, found on the trawler "were shredded and frayed and appeared to have parted as a result of a sudden strain."

"We're not stepping up the man in space program as rapidly as we should," Young told the 700 missile engineers and scientists attending the two-day conference.

Young described the Mrs.-V as a type of space plane carrying a 20,000 pound capsule for space passengers that could be lifted aloft by a half-million-pound thrust engine.

If the project was started on a top priority basis, he said, it would run parallel with the man in space program.

The program, which would cost about 300 or 400 million dollars, would consist of firing the ship high in space where it would be able to maneuver in flight and later return to earth.

"We are dwelling too long on the fringes of real space activity and are not pushing with proper speed the critical and rewarding aspects of space," Young warned. The Mrs.-V program, he said, at present is only a "collection of ideas largely unaccepted by planners."

U.S. Says Evidence Shows Red Trawler Broke Sea Cables

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rejecting a Soviet protest, the United States contends it has evidence strongly indicating a Soviet trawler broke five transatlantic cables last month.

In a note to the Kremlin Monday, the United States said Moscow had no basis for protesting the boarding of the Soviet trawler Novorossisk by a U.S. Navy party of Newfoundland Feb. 28.

After a brief search of the trawler, the Navy group commander said there was "no indication of intentions other than fishing."

Monday's note did not allege any willful cable cutting, but said the vessel's trawling cable, used in fishing, was long enough to reach bottom. It said broken sections of the trawling cable, found on the trawler "were shredded and frayed and appeared to have parted as a result of a sudden strain."

LOSES FIGHT FOR LIFE — William Welch and his pregnant wife, Elice, struggle in their canoe as they were swept over a dam in the swirling Charles river, near Watertown, Mass. Welch, blinded by churning water, searched for his wife, not knowing that she had been swept safely into the hands of rescuers. Welch was finally pulled from the river, but it was too late.

'Devil's Hole' Claims Life Of British Student-Explorer

BUXTON, England (AP) — An Oxford freshman trapped for nearly two days in a rock crevice 1,000 feet underground died today after rescuers repeatedly had failed in a desperate struggle to free him.

The 20-year-old student and amateur explorer, Neil Moss, fell feet first Sunday afternoon into the "Devil's Hole" of Britain's deepest cave. He had been unconscious since Sunday night but early today had been reported breathing "quite well" with the aid of oxygen administered to him at intervals.

Police announced his death as Britain tensely followed the heart-breaking rescue attempt here in the English Midlands.

The husky, 170-pound collegian's shoulders were wedged so tight 40 feet down in the S-shaped rock shaft that four attempts to pull him free Monday failed. A rope slipped under his limp arms broke each time.

Rescuers tried to work from both ends of the hollow shaft holding Moss captive.

June Bailey, a 5-foot blonde weighing only 106 pounds wriggled her way down into the funnel but gave up after six hours. She said she got within sight of Moss but was driven back by foul air.

Another route to the trapped student was sought by Bob Laake, a cave expert for 30 years. Wearing a frogman suit, he searched for a subterranean stream through which he might approach the bottom of the shaft to help work Moss free from below.

"Moss is stuck in a sort of hollow corkscrew," one rescue worker explained. "The only way to free him will be to revolve his body in the hole—to unscrew him."

Moss son of a cotton executive, went exploring in the cave with several friends on Sunday but strayed from the party. The cave is under a Derbyshire hillside owned by the royal family on the foot high—circling around an underground lake.

Some of the tunnels are only a grounds of historic Pevril Castle. Moss' cries of "Help me! I'm stuck!" at 1 p.m. Sunday brought others in the party to the crevice in which he had fallen.

LONDON (AP) — Ten-month-old Siamese twins Timothy and Jeremy Thackeray, separated in a delicate 9½ hour operation, remained in critical condition today.

Hospital authorities had warned after Monday night's surgery that it might be several days before doctors could tell whether the twins, born joined at the head, would survive.

The twins were born three weeks premature last May to Mrs. Reginald Thackeray, 35, wife of a suburban bank manager. A third boy born with them, Peter, is normal.

The Thackerays have a fourth son, Christopher, 3.

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Bowing to public protests, the government has decided to tone down a bill that would have given it power to arrest and hold virtually anyone.

The bill was aimed at crushing the African National party, which was outlawed a month ago after demonstrations by its militantly nationalist members had resulted in violence in neighboring North-and other high state officials in hopes of obtaining funds for Hargus Creek development this year or next.

However, the Parks Division has asked the Legislature for $11 million for park improvement throughout the state. Four immediate improvement plans and eight alternates were submitted for the choice of legislators. No Hargus Creek development was in any of the 12 plans.

Rep. Wallace said he is trying to find support for the inclusion of Hargus Creek in the Park Division improvement program. He is asking for a basic $62,125 for general improvement and an additional $40,500 for development of boat docks.

That totals $102,625, more than half of the Park Division's recommended $200,000 for "other needed work throughout the state", which may or may not get legislative approval.

The three commissioners meet again today to seek agreement on an appointee. Each commissioner nominated a different prospect Monday, but each proposal failed for lack of a seconding motion.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The former administrator of Maumee Valley Hospital, released Monday from Toledo State Hospital is behind bars in the Lucas County Jail today on an embezzlement charge.

John David Swaggerty was sent to the hospital Oct. 9 after four psychiatrists testified in probate court that he was mentally ill.

Last January, the state auditor's office reported that $20,832 in Maumee Valley Hospital funds had been either spent illegally or embezzled while Swaggerty was administrator.

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Nine-year-old Janet Tolhurst of Fremont, her face bitten Monday by a police dog, is in fair condition today in Wood County Hospital.

The dog attacked her in the yard of Mrs. Luther Kemmer of nearby Pemberville, Janet's aunt. The girl underwent more than three hours of surgery for the severe wounds.

Janet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tolhurst.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to increase the amount which the Agriculture Department can spend during the rest of the current school year for the special school milk program.

Under present law, the department can spend 75 million dollars. The bill passed Monday would increase this to 78 million dollars.

Hargus Creek Development Depends on State Lawmakers

Although the State of Ohio has set no time for improvement of Hargus Creek Lake facilities, there is a scant possibility some funds for the local lake will be available.

Today V. W. Flickinger, chief of the Ohio Division of Parks, said the division has submitted a capital improvement schedule to the Legislature with earmarked projects, but Hargus Creek is not among them.

However, the division has recommended appropriation of $200,000 for other needed work throughout the state. "Top priority work at Hargus Creek Lake could be considered in allocating funds from this account," Flickinger said.

The division chief added, "At the present time, in view of the state's fiscal situation, it is difficult to predict to what degree it will be possible to activate projects of even the highest priority during the next biennium. However, we are hopeful that sufficient funds can be provided to permit substantial progress toward our long range goals."

"We are grateful for the continuing interest and assistance of local citizens and legislators in the Hargus Creek project, and we will certainly proceed with it as soon as our schedule and funds permit."

FLICKINGER explained that Hargus Creek Lake eventually will provide a variety of recreational facilities. He said plans call for picnic areas, shelter houses, improved roads and parking, adequate wells and toilets at several points, docks, beach and tent camping area. Some additional land should be acquired, he said.

18 Restaurants Plan Coffee Day

Collections for the annual Easter Seal drive of the Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children and Adults today are running behind collections of a year ago.

That was the report by Robert Wood, chairman of the local Easter Seal campaign. He reported that $250 was collected in the annual Lily Parade, on downtown streets Saturday.

Plans for the annual Coffee Day Thursday are progressing, he declared.

Mrs. James Rice is chairman of Thursday's Coffee Day program and she is assisted by Mrs. John Jefferies. Incidentally, Circleville's Coffee Day is the most successful in the state.

Restaurants which will serve coffee, with the usual charge donated to the society, include the Jim Dandy, Benny's, Dairy Bar, Franklin Inn, Anderson's Candy Shop, Top Hat, Gallahers, Fairmont's, Mecca, Bingham's, Paul's, Wells, Bus Station, Andy's Sandwich Shop, Thompson's, Choo-Choo Inn, Hanley's and Palm's.

COFFEE DAY hours are between 9 a. m. and noon. All money collected for coffee during those hours will be turned over to the society.

To date about $1,600 has been collected through the mail from those who received Easter Seals. About 7,000 persons throughout the county were sent Easter Seals by the society.

State Chiefs Give Ike Data On Idle Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has received these views on unemployment compensation from eight governors: The states want no federal standards but they could use federal money in an emergency.

The governors, representing the executive committee of the Governors Conference, issued a statement summarizing their views after meeting with the President Monday.

In essence, their statement agreed with Eisenhower's feelings. He, too, said the states should continue to set their own separate standards on unemployment compensation.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell told newsmen the administration would ask Congress to make two important changes in the program.

One would extend coverage to about 3,200,000 more workers. At present, only employers of four or more workers must join the plan. Mitchell said the administration wants all employers in. It also wants some employees of nonprofit institutions covered.

The other would raise the base for payroll taxes. At present, employers pay on the first $3,000 of a worker's wage. Mitchell said this should be raised to $4,200. The present average tax is less than 2 per cent.

Hat Tipping Said To Mean Man Tags Lady as Inferior

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ever tip your hat to a lady as she stepped on the elevator? Well, you may be the type that regards women as inferior.

And that type, say two psychologists, "is usually the man who is racially prejudiced, narrow-minded and an advocate of the use of force to settle social and political issues."

However, if you keep your hat on you tend to be democratically oriented and have "manto-man, matter-of-fact, broad minded attitudes not only toward women but toward minority groups and social and political problems."

Conclusions about hat tipping, announced Monday, were the result of a study of male college students at Case Institute of Technology by Dr. Eugene B. Nadler of Case, and Dr. William R. Morrow of Missouri State Hospital at Fulton, Mo.

Jail Escapees Are Linked to Pennsy Holdup

GREENVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Three men and a woman—believed to be the four who escaped from a Youngstown, Ohio, jail Monday held up a service station near here today and got away with $50.

Andrew Rerko, the service station attendant, said that at gun point he was tied up and put in a washroom. He said the men wore blue coveralls — apparently jail clothes — and the woman sat in the back seat of a 1956 Buick.

A car matching that description was stolen from Maple Heights, a Cleveland suburb, shortly after a station wagon was abandoned there this morning.

The service station is on Pennsylvania 358, just six miles east of the Ohio line.

The woman, Mrs. Lola Gordon, 40, was cleared last week of a burglary charge and was merely being given shelter until she received train fare from a relative to go to New York State.

Chief Sheriff's Deputy Frank Reese said Mrs. Gordon willingly accompanied the three men. Her husband, Albert, whom she left behind in jail, was unable to explain why his wife fled with the others. Gordon is awaiting transfer to the penitentiary after pleading guilty to burglary.

The three men who escaped, all from Youngstown, are Robert P. Herman, 36, convicted of armed robbery; Joseph Orville, 23, serving a burglary sentence, and Donald Sweet, 24, held for grand jury action in the theft of a $3,000 gun collection. All are parole violators.

They escaped by overpowering two guards, beating one unconscious. Guard William Kriskell was forced to accompany them in his own automobile but was released later unharmed.

Utility Walkout Parley Scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Federal Mediator H. J. Montoney said today he has called for a resumption of negotiations Wednesday in the strike of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co.

The strike is in its fourth week, with supervisory employees manning installations in 23 central and southern Ohio counties.

The mediator said he plans to confer separately with union and company representatives Wednesday afternoon. He recessed talks for a "breathing spell" Sunday after three days of intensive negotiations.

Popcorn Capital Of the World

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Central Press Association
Correspondent

RIDGWAY, Ill. — This off-the-highway town near the Ohio river claims to be the popcorn capital of the world. So far, no one has disputed its claim. There is a reason: every farmer in the county grows popcorn. This year the acreage is a conservative 25,000. And one of the biggest popcorn processing plants in the country is here.

Last year was a bad year for popcorn, not only in Illinois, but through much of the Midwest. However, this year there is a bumper popcorn crop. Statistics show that Americans are eating more popcorn each year, thanks to the vast theater and drive-in trade, and the upsurge in home popping. Even so, this year's crop will be more than enough, the processors say.

Felons Diet In Plot To Escape Prison

NEW YORK (AP) — Two inmates of city prison can eat dessert today — they don't have to watch their waistlines any more.

The two had been dieting so they could slip through a hole about 18 inches square, part of an elaborate escape plot they hatched.

Prison officials said James Brown, 39, and Clarence Moore, 33, a Negro, admitted the plot. Moore had dropped from 149 to 120 pounds, and Brown from 165 to 125.

Authorities said Moore had entered the prison called "The Tombs," with four hacksaw blades concealed in the soles of his shoes, $35 and a subway token.

He became friendly with Brown, in the next cell. Both are in on armed robbery charges.

Several weeks ago the two began dieting, and cutting through the bars of their cells. They cut through to the corridor and concealed the breaks with chewing gum. They sneaked out at night, and sawed through several inch-thick bars of a small window, one and a half feet square. Only one bar remained to be cut.

They had secreted a makeshift rope, of torn bedsheets and blankets, on a third-floor ledge below the seventh-floor window. They planned to draw the rope up to the window with a "fishing line" made of mop twine, with a bed-spring as a hook.

They had planned to use the rope to get down to the ledge, then down to the courtyard. They planned to hide there until they could slip into a delivery van and go through the gates unnoticed.

Penknife Used To Amputate Girl's Leg

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Little Julia Ellis, 8, whose right leg was amputated Saturday night by a doctor operating with a borrowed penknife, clung doggedly to life today.

State police said the driver was Robert E. Kemp, 25, of suburban Lemay. He was charged with careless and reckless driving while drinking.

Popcorn is popped in many ways. Dry popped or wet popped, it is good. Spray some melted butter over it, and it's delectable! The unpopped kernels, in the parlance of the theater, are known as "old maids," and like in real life they are left in the bottom of the sack, or just passed up.

Little Ridgway, besides being the popcorn capital of the world, lays claim to another "first" this year: Roger Suttner, 16-year-old high school senior who is 7 feet tall, and rated tallest high school basketballer in Illinois in 1958.

You guessed it — Roger raises popcorn on a 300-acre farm nearby. This summer, working in the popcorn fields, he "popped-up" another 1½ inches in his phenomenal height, to put him head and shoulders above his team.

The difference between popcorn and the type animals consume is the type of starch. Ordinary dent corn contains only white starch. As a popping corn it is a dud. However, popcorn has a lot of dark starch that mushrooms into a huge balloon when heat "explodes" it.

Right now, popcorn processors are experimenting with various other seeds, such as sugar cane, etc., but so far the popcorn grain is by far the best for popping.

The scientific handle tacked onto this corn is zein, a lighter translation being "turned inside out." That is just what happens when a grain of popcorn is exploded.

Just who popped the first grain of this corn is not known. Perhaps some caveman accidentally tossed a grain into his fire, and then got the blazes scared out of him when it exploded. Long before Columbus discovered America, popcorn was known. The Aztecs used it in their rituals, for one thing.

Folk seldom hang strung popcorn on Christmas trees any more, but it's still just as pretty as the tinsel and all the modern gimmicks we use today.

Is U.S. on Brink of Oblivion?

"We are not old enough to be so enfeebled by corruption, so unwary in statesmanship, so deficient in education, that we let the late starters catch and pass us. And yet, that seems to be exactly what we're doing, and because of it the nation may not have long to live."

This observation, given to a reporter shortly before his death, was among the last offerings to his fellow men by the late playwright, Maxwell Anderson.

People generally reject the pessimist's view in favor of the "everything's rosy" pronouncement, but there are times in history when a realistic appraisal of conditions must admit some discouragement. The free world is currently undergoing such a period. With the United States the chief bulwark against contemporary world enslavers, the battle must ultimately be won or lost on the strength of this nation.

There are those, and Maxwell Anderson was one of them, who feel that the United States is dangerously close to allowing its pursuit of pleasure to undermine all other objectives.

"As a nation, we're so spoiled, so luxury minded, so carefree, so devoted to the pursuit of happiness, that we have let Russia get ahead of us," philosophized the writer who called himself the rankest amateur philosopher. His play, however, has won acclaim for the very quality his modesty dismissed—his ability to dramatize the currents of a fast moving world.

His eye noted the determined struggle of the Kremlin to bury its enemies at all cost, and the apparent lackadaisical attitude of the West toward defending itself against the onslaught which at times seems inevitable. In these opposing forces—the fanaticism of the Soviet Union and the complacency of the West—Anderson saw a potent danger to civilization.

"Khrushchev has declared that Russia will bury us," he reminded his interviewer. "I think he believes this, and thinks it will be a good thing for the earth when the job is done. I believe the Russian people believe the same doctrine, because that's what they have been taught."

Unless and until the test is made—and it could come at any time—the United States will not know whether it is strong enough to survive. If it does not, the world will face one of the darkest chapters in its history. If it does, who can say what balance of power might have been moved by the uncertainties of men like Maxwell Anderson?

Men Wear Engagement Rings

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

A new jewelry had among men, the wearing of engagement rings set with their birthstones, is being strongly encouraged by their fiancées. The gals figure the rings was predatory females: "This guy is already taken."

When you make your first visit to the moon—almost any year now—don't forget to take the scenic crater tour. The moon has more than 30,000 craters. Many are up to 30 miles wide, and one is 30,000 feet deep—five times the depth of the Grand Canyon.

Our quotable notables: "A woman's club," says comedian George De Witt, "is a place where they knock after they enter."

We Must Maintain Employment

The labor unions have developed enormous strength since the National Labor Relations Board was established in 1935. They grew in numbers; their treasurers became rich; their managers achieved an authority in the nation; politicians grovelled before them and businessmen recognized them as equals.

All this is characteristic of the social development in American life and has been recognized by the American people as a normal condition.

The amalgamation of the American Federation of Labor and the CIO gives to the controlling group in trade unionism a voice in American affairs such as it had never had before. But a voice without statesmanship, without wisdom, is like the braying of an ass. And therein lie all the difficulties which American labor faces today.

For what has happened is that American goods have out-priced themselves not only in world markets but even in the American market. One result of this is unemployment in our principal industrial cities, particularly Detroit. This unemployment is a social rather than an economic problem.

The worker watches industry after industry moving ahead after the slump, but fewer workers are employed. They are blaming it on automation, which is just a word. Automatic machinery has been used for decades. I wrote about automation before World War II, that is, preceding a period of prosperity. And there was full employment, even a shortage of workers, although automatic processes were in use.

The essential stumbling block to full employment is not the mechanical processes, but the selling price of the product in the market-place. If a commodity is out-priced, the law of diminishing returns sets in and sales decrease until the price comes down to meet the price that the public will pay. This is especially so when goods can be imported from other countries of equal value that can be sold at a cheaper price.

In automobiles, such sales are also affected by the gallons of gasoline per mile consumed. In a word, to the consumer price and quality are the sole factors and few worry about the social or political factors in a sale. In fact, the employed worker as a consumer is neither an economist nor a sociologist.

He wants his money's worth. The unemployed worker is puzzled even more. He cannot understand what is being done to him and his family.

Labor leaders have found it smart to demand more at each termination of a labor contract. Their gains have always been included in the price. As long as there was no resistance on the part of the consumer, this was regarded as a smart procedure because it gave the workers a sound reason for belonging to the union, paying dues, and obeying officials.

But when unemployment rears its ugly head, the individual worker does not want excuses, alibies, reasons, or sociological statements. He wants a job. He does not want to be told that he must help our allies, etc. He wants to provide for his wife and children.

Walter Reuther may be the smartest man in the labor movement, but does he provide jobs? The test is not his speech-making but whether the workers get take-home pay. Relief is not take-home pay and no matter what is done about relief, it is charity paid out of taxes and not a pay envelope.

Therefore Reuther's position is imperilled if his union members do not have jobs. The same is true of every labor leader and also of the politicians who take

The first case of human artificial insemination was reported by an English surgeon at the end of the 18th century. Now an estimated 20,000 test tube babies are born yearly.

Had your child's eyes checked lately? "Ten million American school children have vision problems," says Dr. Lois B. Ring of Cleveland. "Half of them will stumble along without anyone ever detecting their handicap."

One in 10 American families has an annual income of $10,000 or more. One in seven an income of $2,000 or less.

It was Abraham Lincoln who observed, "I cannot conceive how a man could look up into heaven and say there is no God."

labor's campaign contributions but cannot make jobs.

The President's conference of nine governors needs to view this as a practical problem because this country cannot tolerate unemployment and the social consequences of dissatisfaction and frustration. There must be a solution to the horrible problem of the unemployables over 50, men and women of competence and experience who will not be employed because they are too old for pension plans.

This nation cannot afford to throw competence and experience down the drain for any reason whatsoever and companies which insist upon the retirement of able persons should be held accountable for this basic anti-social act.

Unemployment is so important a problem that it needs to be handled not only by economists and sociologists but also by some of the oldsters of unusual achievement, the men in their 80's who are still doing great work.

Millions of dollars are being spent to keep men and women alive and active and mentally agile and then they are thrown out of jobs because the developments in medicine, surgery, and psychiatry succeed. Savages used to bump off their oldsters and let them die. It is as cruel to make a man useless and dependent.

WHENEVER he had occasion to enter the ladies' dressing room backstage at a Toronto theatre, electrician Lyle Alton fell into the habit of singing out, "Close your eyes, girls! I'm coming through!"

An angry diner at a newly opened restaurant told the waiter, "You'll never get by with portions like this. I don't think I've ever seen a smaller piece of steak in my life." "You're right," agreed the conciliatory waiter, "but I think it will take you a good long time to eat it."

A draft of Italian lineage dropped into a South Carolina beanery and asked if he could have a pizza pie. "Sho 'nuff," said the waitress politely. "Would yo-all like a pizza apple, peach, or cherry pie?"

Tips for Asthma Sufferers

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Here's what every asthmatic should know.

While some untimely persons may joke about their fellow sufferers who have hay fever, nobody jokes about asthma any more.

Fortunately, uncomplicated asthma seldom is fatal. However, bronchial asthma, the most common type is the most serious of the usual allergic diseases. At least 1,500,000 Americans have it.

Anyone who witnesses an acute asthmatic attack doesn't forget it easily.

Asthma occurs when anyone develops a specific sensitivity to allergens which evoke bronchial response. This occurs in the bronchial tubes when the bronchial muscles tighten in spasm. The lining of the membranes becomes thick and swollen. Mucus pours out into the tubes. And breathing, both inhaling and exhaling, becomes labored.

During an attack it generally is better to sit up than to lie down, since this makes breathing somewhat easier.

Don't eat much during an acute attack. As long as it persists, keep your diet confined to liquids and semi-solids.

There are many drugs such as epinephrine, ephedrine, cortisone, hydrocortisone and others which are generally effective in providing relief. Sedatives, tranquilizers and antihistamines have their place in treating asthma, too. Antibiotics are useful when an infection has led to an attack or when an attack is complicated by an acute infection.

Inhaling the vapor from epinephrine or some other prescribed drug from a nebulizer at the start of an attack might head it off. Generally, four or five deep inhalations are enough to stop the attack.

Certain breathing exercises also are helpful, especially for children and young adults. I suggest that these younger asthmatics take time to exhale from ten to 12 times as slowly and as completely as possible every morning.

They can assist the exhalation by pressing inward on the lower anterior ribs with both hands. They can measure the effectiveness of the exhaling by blowing a ping-pong ball or a feather across a table.

Keep up your general health and nutrition and avoid trying emotional circumstances which might precipitate an attack.

Question and Answer

W. S.: What are brown spots on the skin and what can be done for them?

Answer: Brown spots are due to excessive pigmentation. Often these spots may be bleached out by the use of such ointments as ammoniated mercury. However, this should be done by a physician, since there is danger in the use of bleaching ointments.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Their handling of their foreign ministers—and their attitude toward a foreign ministers meeting—is a prime example of the difference and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Khrushchev treats his foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, like a bookkeeper in charge of small details. Perhaps no president in history ever depended more on his Secretary of State than Eisenhower on John Foster Dulles.

It is hard to imagine Khrushchev at a loss for a word or an idea at a summit get-together if Gromyko never showed up. He already has dismissed as a waste of time a foreign ministers meeting before a summit conference.

Dulles has been Eisenhower's strong right arm in foreign affairs. It is doubtful, because of his cancer, that Dulles can go overseas to a summit meeting with the President.

To be sure, Eisenhower, before he goes, will be well briefed on details by his State Department aides and perhaps by Dulles himself.

But on a minute by minute basis that won't be the same as having Dulles with him. The President respected Dulles' judgment, relied on him, listened, was guided by him.

It is no wonder Eisenhower, contrary to Khrushchev, until recently had insisted that any summit meeting must be preceded by a foreign ministers conference which showed some progress and agreement before the top men met.

If Eisenhower now seems to be attaching less importance to a foreign-ministers meeting it may be due more to Dulles' illness than any argument by Khrushchev or influence by British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Besides reliance on Dulles, there's another good reason why Eisenhower should put much store on a foreign ministers meeting as a preliminary to the summit conference. Reliance on foreign ministers to work things out has been a traditional method of Western diplomacy, not summit meetings.

There are broad differences also between the President and the Russian premier.

The chubby, bald, extroverted Khrushchev—if he had been raised in this country—would have been called a pusher. He has been pushing all his life. He is an innovator and an experimenter.

Eisenhower, although he can play slam-bang politics at campaign time, is essentially a traditionalist and a conservative. He has done no innovating socially or economically here at home. He is a preserver.

His long and successful military career by itself alone would have been an enormous force in making him a respecter of tradition.

Khrushchev, on the other hand, pushed his way up through the cannibalistic ranks of the Communist party. Once at the top he kept pushing. First, he pushed aside the traditional idolatry lavished on the memory of Stalin; next he shoved aside his co-equals, the other heirs of Stalin, like Molotov, Malenkov, Bulganin, Beria.

Meanwhile, he was trying to push the world in the direction he wanted—toward communism. He has done it with threats, with arms in Hungary, economic aid to the backward countries, infiltration in the Middle East, and blandishments toward the rest of the earth.

He has butted heads with Communist party big-wigs to send Soviet economic development spurring ahead. He even talked—but stopped talking after the Hungarian revolt—about letting Communist parties elsewhere relax.

Now he is determined to shake loose the East-West deadlock which has existed in Germany since World War II.

The summit meeting will be a conference between a rambunctious, daring but shrewd man and a conservative who has no revolutionary ambitions but is determined to preserve what the West holds, yielding not an inch to the advantage of the Soviet Union.

Dear Sir:

"M-Sgt. Felton had just arrived from Germany and was enroute to his new station at Fort Riley, Kansas, when he was delayed in Circleville by the flood."

"Due to the delay, his funds were exhausted and the local Red Cross Chapter assisted him financially, sent a wire to his new station, explaining the delay and gave him food and shelter during his stay."

Mrs. Roliff Wolford
Red Cross Director,
Circleville, Ohio

Dear Madam:

"I wish to express my sincere gratitude for making my stay in your community a welcome one. I'm sure that the people of Circleville are thankful for the wonderful job you did during the time of disaster."

"When I entered the church that night of Jan. 22, 1959, I was greeted by some of the most wonderful people that I have ever had the pleasure of meeting."

"They took me in just like one of the family. They gave me food, a place to sleep, and told me that I could stay as long as I wished or had to."

"To the people of Circleville and the surrounding area, I wish to say thanks again and may God take care of you all. I hope that some day I will be able to return to your town (with the heart of gold) called Circleville, Ohio."

"This name will forever remain with me. Thanking you (Red Cross) for a job well done. I wish I could thank each and every one individually, but because of the great number that exist, I hope that this letter will be placed so that everyone can read it, thanking you again, I remain."

Sincerely yours,
Stanley S. Felton, M-Sgt.

"The Car-Buick 1959"

Chosen for the May 30 Indianapolis Race.

The pace car for the 43rd annual 500 mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30, will be a handsome Buick Electra Convertible.

The invitation was extended by Speedway President Tony Hulman to the Indianapolis Buick dealers and was immediately accepted.

"Selection of Buick," said Mr. Hulman, "is in keeping with the Speedway custom of choosing the car we believe has shown the greatest advancement in styling and performance."

The 1959 Buick, lower and wider than ever before, is an all new car from bumper to bumper. Delta Wing rear fenders flare outward at a jaunty angle and canted twin headlights emphasize the cars classic front end design.

Its new Wildcat V-8 engine has a compression ratio of 10.5 to 1 and a piston replacement of 401 cubic inches. Triple engine and dynamo transmission and aluminum brake drums are other important new features. The wheels are still 15" for better braking surfaces.

The Buick Electra pace car will be White, with Custom interior and full power equipment.

Other Buick Convertibles also will be used as official cars for the mammoth 500 festival parade in the downtown area on the night before the race.

Only the 33 fastest qualifiers will be eligible for starting positions behind the pace car, but more than 60 entries are expected.

You can drive and compare a Buick at your local Buick Dealer, Yates Buick Co. They invite you to try it.

Labor leaders have found it smart to demand more at each termination of a labor contract. Their gains have always been included in the price. As long as there was no resistance on the part of the consumer, this was regarded as a smart procedure because it gave the workers a sound reason for belonging to the union, paying dues, and obeying officials.

But when unemployment rears its ugly head, the individual worker does not want excuses, alibies, reasons, or sociological statements. He wants a job. He does not want to be told that he must help our allies, etc. He wants to provide for his wife and children.

Walter Reuther may be the smartest man in the labor movement, but does he provide jobs?

The test is not his speech-making but whether the workers get take-home pay. Relief is not take-home pay and no matter what is done about relief, it is charity paid out of taxes and not a pay envelope.

Therefore Reuther's position is imperilled if his union members do not have jobs. The same is true of every labor leader and also of the politicians who take labor's campaign contributions but cannot make jobs.

The President's conference of nine governors needs to view this as a practical problem because this country cannot tolerate unemployment and the social consequences of dissatisfaction and frustration. There must be a solution to the horrible problem of the unemployed over 50, men and women of competence and experience who will not be employed because they are too old for pension plans.

This nation cannot afford to throw competence and experience down the drain for any reason whatsoever and companies which insist upon the retirement of able persons should be held accountable for this basic anti-social act.

Unemployment is so important a problem that it needs to be handled not only by economists and sociologists but also by some of the oldsters of unusual achievement, the men in their 80's who are still doing great work.

Millions of dollars are being spent to keep men and women alive and active and mentally agile and then they are thrown out of jobs because the developments in medicine, surgery, and psychiatry succeed. Savages used to bump off their oldsters and let them die. It is as cruel to make a man useless and dependent.

"Instead of the annual raise, I'm hiring Mr. Nelson as a fringe benefit—he's single."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

WHENEVER he had occasion to enter the ladies' dressing room backstage at a Toronto theatre, electrician Lyle Alton fell into the habit of singing out, "Close your eyes, girls! I'm coming through!"

Variety reports that one of the girls who's been appearing in that theatre for ten solid weeks suddenly gasped with the realization that she'd been falling for the gag from the first performance on!

An angry diner at a newly opened restaurant told the waiter, "You'll never get by with portions like this. I don't think I've ever seen a smaller piece of steak in my life." "You're right," agreed the conciliatory waiter, "but I think it will take you a good long time to eat it."

A draft of Italian lineage dropped into a South Carolina beanery and asked if he could have a pizza pie. "Sho' nuff," said the waitress politely. "Would you all like a pizza apple, peach, or cherry pie?"

Tips for Asthma Sufferers

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Here's what every asthmatic should know.

While some unthinking persons may joke about your fellow sufferers who have hay fever, nobody jokes about asthma any more.

Fortunately, uncomplicated asthma seldom is fatal. However, bronchial asthma, the most common type is the most serious of the usual allergic diseases. At least 1,500,000 Americans have it.

Anyone who witnesses an acute asthmatic attack doesn't forget it easily.

Asthma occurs when anyone develops a specific sensitivity to allergens which evoke bronchial response. This occurs in the bronchial tubes when the bronchial muscles tighten in spasm. The lining of the membranes becomes thick and swollen. Mucus pours out into the tubes. And breathing, both inhaling and exhaling, becomes labored.

During an attack it generally is better to sit up than to lie down, since this makes breathing somewhat easier.

Don't eat much during an acute attack. As long as it persists, keep your diet confined to liquids and semi-solids.

There are many drugs such as epinephrine, ephedrine, cortisone, hydrocortisone and others which are generally effective in providing relief. Sedatives, tranquilizers and antihistamines have their place in treating asthma, too. Antibiotics are useful when an infection has led to an attack or when an attack is complicated by an acute infection.

Inhaling the vapor from epinephrine or some other prescribed drug from a nebulizer at the start of an attack might head it off. Generally, four or five deep inhalations are enough to stop the attack.

Certain breathing exercises also are helpful, especially for children and young adults. I suggest that these younger asthmatics take time to exhale from ten to 12 times as slowly and as completely as possible every morning.

They can assist the exhalation by pressing inward on the lower anterior ribs with both hands. They can measure the effectiveness of the exhaling by blowing a ping-pong ball or a feather across a table.

Keep up your general health and nutrition and avoid trying emotional circumstances which might precipitate an attack.

Question and Answer

W. S.: What are brown spots on the skin and what can be done for them?

Answer: Brown spots are due to excessive pigmentation. Often these spots may be bleached out by the use of such ointments as ammoniated mercury. However, this should be done by a physician, since there is danger in the use of bleaching ointments.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Their handling of their foreign ministers—and their attitude toward a foreign ministers meeting—is a prime example of the difference and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Khrushchev treats his foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, like a bookkeeper in charge of small details. Perhaps no president in history ever depended more on his Secretary of State than Eisenhower on John Foster Dulles.

It is hard to imagine Khrushchev at a loss for a word or an idea at a summit get-together if Gromyko never showed up. He already has dismissed as a waste of time a foreign ministers meeting before a summit conference.

Dulles has been Eisenhower's strong right arm in foreign affairs. It is doubtful, because of his cancer, that Dulles can go overseas to a summit meeting with the President.

To be sure, Eisenhower, before he goes, will be well briefed on details by his State Department and perhaps by Dulles himself.

But on a minute by minute basis that won't be the same as having Dulles with him. The President respected Dulles' judgment, relied on him, listened, was guided by him.

It is no wonder Eisenhower, contrary to Khrushchev, until recently had insisted that any summit meeting must be preceded by a foreign ministers conference which showed some progress and agreement before the top men met.

If Eisenhower now seems to be attaching less importance to a foreign ministers meeting it may be due more to Dulles' illness than any argument by Khrushchev or influence by British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Besides reliance on Dulles, there's another good reason why Eisenhower should put much store on a foreign ministers meeting as a preliminary to the summit conference. Reliance on foreign ministers to work things out has been a traditional method of Western diplomacy, not summit meetings.

There are broad differences also between the President and the Russian premier.

The chubby, bald, extroverted Khrushchev—if he had been raised in this country—would have been called a pusher. He has been pushing all his life. He is an innovator and an experimenter.

Eisenhower, although he can play slam-bang politics at campaign time, is essentially a traditionalist and a conservative. He has done no innovating socially or economically here at home. He is a preserver.

His long and successful military career by itself alone would have been an enormous force in making him a respecter of tradition.

Khrushchev, on the other hand, pushed his way up through the cannibalistic ranks of the Communist party. First, he pushed aside the traditional idolatry lavished on the memory of Stalin; next he shoved aside his co-equals, the other heirs of Stalin, like Molotov, Malenkov, Bulganin, Beria.

Meanwhile, he was trying to push the world in the direction he wanted—toward communism. He has done it with threats, with arms in Hungary, economic aid to the backward countries, infiltration in the Middle East, and blandishments toward the rest of the world.

He has butted heads with Communist party big-wigs to send Soviet economic development spurring ahead. He even talked — but stopped talking after the Hungarian revolt — about letting Communist parties elsewhere relax.

Now he is determined to shake loose the East-West deadlock which has existed in Germany since World War II.

The summit meeting will be a conference between a rambunctious, daring but shrewd man and a conservative who has no revolutionary ambitions but is determined to preserve what the West holds, yielding not an inch to the advantage of the Soviet Union.

Dear Sir:

"M-Sgt. Felton had just arrived from Germany and was enroute to his new station at Fort Riley, Kansas, when he was delayed in Circleville by the flood."

"Due to the delay, his funds were exhausted and the local Red Cross Chapter assisted him financially, sent a wire to his new station, explaining the delay and gave him food and shelter during his stay."

Mrs. Roliff Wolford

Dear Madam:

"I wish to express my sincere gratitude for making my stay in your community a welcome one. I'm sure that the people of Circleville are thankful for the wonderful job you did during the time of disaster."

"When I entered the church that night of Jan. 22, 1950, I was greeted by some of the most wonderful people that I have ever had the pleasure of meeting."

"They took me in just like one of the family. They gave me food, a place to sleep, and told me that I could stay as long as I wished or had to."

"To the people of Circleville and the surrounding area, I wish to say thanks again and may God take care of you all. I hope that some day I will be able to return to your town (with the heart of gold) called Circleville, Ohio."

"This name will forever remain with me. Thanking you (Red Cross) for a job well done. I wish I could thank each and every one individually, but because of the great number that exist, I hope that this letter will be placed so that everyone can read it, thanking you again, I remain,"

Sincerely yours,

"The Car-- Buick 1959"

Chosen for the May 30 Indianapolis Race.

The pace car for the 43rd annual 500 mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30, will be a handsome Buick Electra Convertible.

The invitation was extended by Speedway President Tony Hulman to the Indianapolis Buick dealers and was immediately accepted.

"Selection of Buick", said Mr. Hulman, "is in keeping with the Speedway custom of choosing the car we believe has shown the greatest advancement in styling and performance."

The 1959 Buick, lower and wider than ever before, is an all new car from bumper to bumper. Delta Wing rear fenders flare outward at a jaunty angle and canted twin headlights emphasize the cars classic front end design.

Its new Wildcat V-8 engine has a compression ratio of 10.5 to 1 and a piston replacement of 401 cubic inches. Triple engine and dynamo transmission and aluminum brake drums are other important new features. The wheels are still 15" for better braking surfaces.

The Buick Electra pace car will be White, with Custom interior and full power equipment.

Other Buick Convertibles also will be used as official cars for the mammoth 500 festival parade in the downtown area on the night before the race.

Only the 33 fastest qualifiers will be eligible for starting positions behind the pace car, but more than 60 entries are expected.

You can drive and compare a Buick at your local Buick Dealer, Yates Buick Co. They invite you to try it.

Soldier Tells How Galilean Won Debate with Priests

Editor's Note: This is the second in the Easter series "Epistles from a Roman." The first of the articles, all in the form of daily letters written by a Roman officer named Valerius to his father in Rome, told of hot, restless Jerusalem and the Galilean's arrival amid waving palm fronds.

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Religion Writer
Jerusalem, Judea
16th year of the Caesar Tiberius Gaius my father,

I send you the warmest filial greetings.

The wind continues to blow hot and dry from across the great eastern desert and the city fills to overflowing with outlanders.

Perhaps it is the heat or the constant babble of alien voices in the streets, but I detect a feeling of tension in the air. Although no one speaks of it, others feel it too, from the common soldier to the Procurator himself.

This evening, the Procurator Pilate dispatched the nightly messenger to Caesarea with unseemly haste. It is rumored he has asked that several centuries of the legion be sent to Jerusalem to stand by in case of trouble during the approaching passover festival.

Our singular man from Galilee, he who some claim will be king of the Jews, has become an overnight sensation. It is said he went into the temple courtyard and, before the very eyes of the priests themselves, he overturned the money changers' tables and scattered the coins on the floor.

It will illustrate the eternal boredom of this place—Titus says it is the heat—when I tell you that today I donned a plain tunic and went into the temple courtyard for it was said in the streets that the Galilean would be there to speak his beliefs.

The Galilean appears to be very much like any other person in this place—but with a difference that is hard to define.

Perhaps it is his eyes. They are gentle yet penetrating—the eyes of a man who has seen evil and sin and has assumed their burden on his own frail shoulders. His eyes seem to plead with you to accept what their owner says as truth, not for his sake but for yours.

Or perhaps it is his voice. He speaks earnestly, in low, quiet tones. He expounds his beliefs by means of little stories, stories so simple a child could understand. Yet he is every bit as compelling to his listeners as the most spell-binding orator of the Senate.

The Galilean had not been speaking his beliefs very long before the priests came out of the inner temple—where non-Jews are not admitted—and questioned his authority to speak to the people. The Galilean, neither alarmed nor offended, replied with one of his little stories.

He told them of a stone that had been rejected by builders which became the cornerstone of the building. In truth, he was comparing himself to the rejected stone and the priests to the unwise builders, which drove the priests into a frenzy.

Some of them seemed about to lay hands on the frail Galilean but the temper of the people was against them and they retreated. Instead, they began to ask him questions about his beliefs, questions slyly designed to trap him into treason against the Caesar.

"Do you think it lawful to give tribute to the Caesar?" asked one of the priests.

The Galilean paused for a moment. I strained my ears for his answer. He held up a coin of Rome for all to see and he asked whose image and inscription appeared upon it. All agreed they were those of the Caesar.

"Then," said the Galilean, "you must give to the Caesar those things which belong to Caesar and you must give to God those things which are his due."

As I walked back to the Antonia, our garrison fortress, for the evening meal, I pondered his answer. Treasonable, to be sure, for he was not all things due the Caesar? But I had not found it in me to reproach the Galilean. In fact, I found myself nodding agreement. Why was this?

I also pondered, with some amusement, a remark I overheard in the courtyard. One man had told another—seriously, mind you—that the Galilean is not only king and savior but the son of the one god. Really now! He seemed very much flesh and blood to me.

Nevertheless, I find the man intriguing. I think tomorrow I shall go into the streets again and seek out someone who can tell me more about him.

Steel Industry Profit
Drops 31 Pct. in '58

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel in industry earnings dropped 31 per cent to $817,200,000 last year after three straight years of billion dollar profits, Steel Magazine reports.

The magazine estimated 1958 earnings on reports from 33 leading steel manufacturers, which account for 94 per cent of the nation's steelmaking capacity.

Sales last year fell 21 per cent below the previous year to slightly more than 12 billion, Steel said.

"In truth, the Galilean was comparing himself to the rejected stone and the priests to the unwise builders, which drove the priests into a frenzy."

Anti-Mikoyan Scene Headed By Minister

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Lutheran minister has testified that he organized a demonstration that greeted Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan on his visit here Jan. 8.

The Rev. Tibor Domotor, testified in defense of Emma Halhai, 19, former Hungarian Freedom Fighter accused of tossing a stone at Mikoyan's party.

As the case opened in Municipal Court Monday, defense attorney Charles J. Kersten got in a lick against Mikoyan and industrialist Cyrus S. Eaton, who was host to the deputy premier.

In his opening argument, Kersten, a former Milwaukee congressman, told the jury Eaton provoked Mrs. Halhai's act by "harboring this well known murderer (Mikoyan)."

The defense asked the case be dismissed on grounds the city had not proved that Mrs. Halhai threw anything at Mikoyan's escorts, as charged, and that the disorderly conduct ordinance does not apply in her case.

Municipal Judge Mary B. Grossman denied the motion.

The city called just one witness.

Steel Industry Profit Drops 31 Pct. in '58

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel industry earnings dropped 31 per cent to $817,200,000 last year after three straight years of billion dollar profits, Steel Magazine reports.

The magazine estimated 1958 earnings on reports from 33 leading steel manufacturers, which account for 94 per cent of the nation's steel-making capacity.

Sales last year fell 21 per cent below the previous year to slightly more than 12 billion, Steel said.

Anti-Mikoyan Scene Headed By Minister

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Lutheran minister has testified that he organized a demonstration that greeted Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan on his visit here Jan. 8.

The Rev. Tibor Domotor, testified in defense of Emma Halhai, 19, former Hungarian Freedom Fighter accused of tossing a stone at Mikoyan's party.

As the case opened in Municipal Court Monday, defense attorney Charles J. Kersten got in a lick against Mikoyan and industrialist Cyrus S. Eaton, who was host to the deputy premier.

In his opening argument, Kersten, a former Milwaukee congressman, told the jury Eaton provoked Mrs. Halhai's act by "harboring this well known murderer (Mikoyan)."

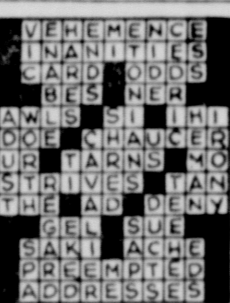

The defense asked the case be dismissed on grounds the city had not proved that Mrs. Halhai threw anything at Mikoyan's escort, as charged, and that the disorderly conduct ordinance does not apply in her case.

Municipal Judge Mary B. Grossman denied the motion.

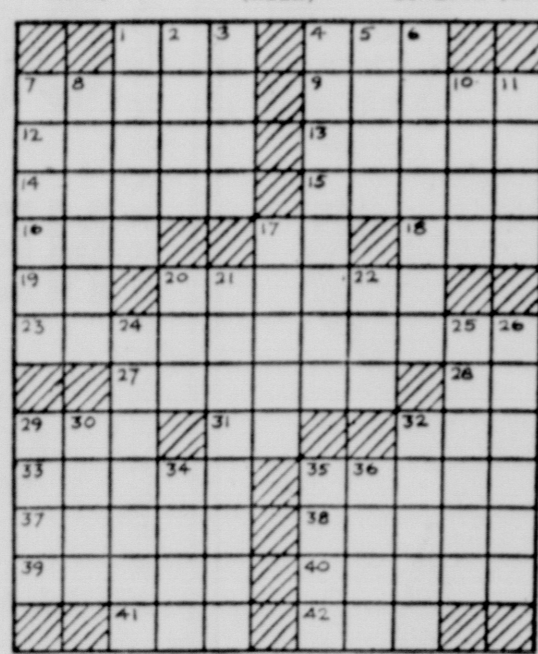

The city called just one witness.

Labor Trouble Worries Many Economists

Bright First Quarter May Be Dulled Later By Union Developments

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—For many industries the first quarter of 1959 is bowing out gloriously. The outlook for the spring months is bright.

But many economists today are taking a gloomy view of business this summer.

Fear of major labor troubles is in the forefront of their thinking. The industries sparking the business recovery in recent months will have to have help from other sources if the momentum is to carry much farther. These other sources show little signs of contributing any more than they are now.

Biggest gains just now over a year ago are in the hard goods industries. This is partly due to a widespread drive to get ready before the labor troubles break. Hedging against strikes is pronounced in the metal industries. Steel mills expect to ship one fourth more steel this first quarter of 1959 than in the last three months of 1958.

Steelmen are counting on a good spring pickup in demand from other quarters such as construction. They hope for a continuing good or better demand for autos during the spring. This could tide the steel industry over nicely till the end of June when its union contracts expire.

But strike or no strike, few now expect steel demand to be heavy this summer.

Hedging against the threat of strikes in the copper industry this summer still continues. Demand for copper is also boosted by labor troubles in various foreign mines.

Tin has been enjoying a boom for much the same reason.

Auto makers have been turning out more cars this year than last. Auto dealers report selling more cars.

But the industry has been humming while building up dealers' stocks. Detroit is reported ready now to tailor production closely to sales.

That leaves it up to the consumers. If they buy, auto production will go on at a good clip, and more steel will be bought.

Consumer spending has held up well, but there are few signs that it will turn into a spree as in 1955. Some think this will also be true in housing.

Another needed boost would come from business itself, if it decided to increase its spending for plant and equipment significantly. Indications are that spending will pick up some later this year—but only a bit.

So the things needed to take up the slack if the metals boom ends aren't sure things as the pleasant first quarter ends.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Don't Know the 'Arf' of It

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman of 62 years and before I die I would like to know the answer to a question that has been on my mind for years. Is there such a thing as "dog language"? I mean when dogs bark, are they trying to say something? I have heard dogs bark at one another and I do believe they understand each other because they seem to reply. Please don't toss this away, Abby, thinking it is too foolish to answer because there might be others who have wondered about this, too.

DEAR CURIOUS: I have also observed canine communications and I don't know who could be considered the final authority on this subject.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you could help me. I have 5 children and another on the way. My husband is good looking and is constantly getting into trouble. He likes the women. Last year it was my sister. I couldn't take it so I threw him out. Welfare has been supporting me since June. He has started coming back for meals and he wants his clothes washed and he even sleeps here. He isn't supposed to be here at all. If the Welfare finds out they'll stop my check. I told him if he asked it at home so much he should work steady and live here but he says he can't stand the kids. I would like to have him here, Abby, but should I let him stay if he doesn't support me? I am 23 years old.

DEAR ABBY: That grandmother who put her four-year-old grandchild into a cage because he touches objects he has been warned not to touch. Why doesn't she do what I do? I make up interesting little stories about each "untouchable" object in my home and when my grandchildren go to touch it I tell these fantastic tales so convincing that they wouldn't think of touching any of my untouchables.

DEAR ABBY: Now I've heard everything! A grandmother who puts her four-year-old grandchild into a cage because he touches objects he has been warned not to touch. Why doesn't she do what I do? DAR Official Questions U.S. Tieup to U.N.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The United States government has been meshed into the United Nations by means of treaty clauses, the 60th annual conference of the Ohio Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was told Monday.

Mrs. Frederic A. Groves of Cape Girardeau, Mo., president general of the national society of the DAR said the U.S. constitution is subordinated to the UN by "clever use—or misuse—of the treaty clause."

She told the opening session of the three-day conference:

"The United Nations has established a host of international bureaus and agencies, with vast powers over world political, social and economic agencies. . . .

"The result is that today organs of the United Nations and its subsidiaries have a decisive influence on our foreign policies, our tariffs, agriculture, investment, social welfare and even our defense."

U.S. Education Debates Eyed By Foreigners

CLEVELAND (AP)—A prominent educator says criticism of our school program in this country is being taken seriously by educators in some countries.

Dr. John C. Baker, president of Ohio University, told the convention of the American Personnel and Guidance Assn. Monday our debates about education have made school men in many of the underdeveloped countries skeptical of the quality of our school system.

Several months ago Baker was a consultant on education to Cambodia and other nations in south-east Asia.

Martin W. Essex, superintendent of Akron schools, told delegates they have an increased responsibility since "the lack of social and moral solidarity in the family is robbing too many children of the humanizing warmth of parental love and guidance."

He said the great mobility of families these days "has separated families from their relatives and long-respected neighbors."

The four-day convention opened Monday.

Coloring of Easter Eggs Dates Back to Pagan Times

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Just why do we color Easter eggs? Because they're fun to do? Or because they delight the children? There's more to it than that.

It's a long, long story.

According to Mrs. Peter Cymbala, wife of West Milton's mayor, it's an interesting story, too. And she has become known in the Miami Valley as an authority on Easter eggs.

She says that far back in the ancient pagan world the humble egg, familiar to all races of mankind, became a ritual object.

To these early people the egg was the symbol of a new life.

As early as 5000 B. C. it was a custom to color eggs red and exchange them as gifts at the vernal equinox when spring festivals were held.

Mrs. Cymbala has done much research on the subject and has huge scrapbooks on all phases of Easter eggs. It was this research that got her interested some 11 years ago in painting eggs for Easter and making collector's items of them.

"Egyptians, Persians, Greek and Romans used colored eggs in their rituals," Mrs. Cymbala explains.

"The ancient Persians believed the earth was hatched from an egg. In Hindu mythology is a legend that before the beginning of time a 'world egg' was formed in the 'waters of chaos.' (It is a curious Chinese custom to distribute eggs and colored red when a child is born, much as we hand out cigars!)"

"The name 'Easter' itself is of pagan origin—from Eostre, the Anglo-Saxon goddess of spring who is pictured on a throne with an egg, symbol of new life in her hand, and with a rabbit, symbol of fertility, at her feet.

"The advent of Christianity brought many changes in beliefs, but early Christians clung to the egg. It became the symbol of the Resurrection. So it is the custom to color great numbers of eggs to denote the joy of Easter."

"Today," Mrs. Cymbala concludes, "little children—and all of us—remember our Easter by the inspiration of our best-loved story in the glorious music, in the sunshine and lovely spring flowers and in the colorful Easter egg."

Farmers Cautioned About Seed Labels

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Farmers had better read the labels on seed packages before they buy them or they may be throwing their money away.

That warning was issued Monday by John W. Baringer, chief of the State Division of Plant Industry.

A proper label indicates the percentage of seed which germinated when tested and the date of the test, Baringer said.

"If the date indicates the test is more than nine months old, the label is illegal and the seed should not be sold until it is retested," he warned.

Looks Like Yanks To Keep Tom Sturdivant

Hope Of Senators Fades As He Helps Shut Them Out, 5-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Erase one pitcher from the possible list of Washington Senators starters.

The name is Tom Sturdivant. He wears blue pin stripes and has a big "NY" on the front of his uniform.

The experts had him figured a cinch Senator by opening day April 9, but Monday he pitched like a Yankee should and it now appears he'll be staying in New York come cherry blossom time.

Sturdivant was one of four Yankee right-handers who combined in a 5-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles at Miami. It was the first spring shutout for the Yanks.

Sturdivant hardly looked like one of the expendables the Yanks reportedly have been using as trade bait for a front-line Washington pitcher.

The 6-1 Yankee, who finished 1958 in Manager Casey Stengel's doghouse, allowed only two hits in five innings. He walked three and struck out one. Both hits came in the same inning, but a double play ball got him out of trouble.

Another Yank with his job on the line, veteran pitcher Virgil Trucks, followed Sturdivant and pitched goose eggs for two innings.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, hung a 10-6 defeat on Milwaukee, its 10th in 13 games. Lew Burdette gave up six runs and Bob Rush the other four, all in the big Dodger seventh.

The Detroit Tigers, finally getting both pitching and hitting won their fourth in a row, 15-5, over Cincinnati at Lakeland. Harvey Kuenn, Al Kaline, Frank Bolling and Rocky Bridges combined for 13 of the Tigers' 19 hits.

The Philadelphia Phillies came up with an impressive rookie performance as 19-year-old Ed Keegan permitted St. Louis only one run in five innings, but it took a pinch grand slam homer by 38-year-old Dave Philley before St. Louis was beaten 9-5 at St. Petersburg.

Turk Lown, Don Rudolph and Bob Shaw combined in a six-hitter for the Chicago White Sox as Chicago scored five runs in the first two innings off Kansas City starter Walt Craddock. The 8-5 Chicago victory was the first taste of major league ball for Hollywood, Fla.

The Chicago Cubs, San Francisco, Boston, Cleveland, Washington and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Ashville Baseball Meeting Is Called

The Ashville Baseball club will hold a preseason meeting Thursday at 7 p. m. at the Ashville Council house according to Orville Rub, one of the organizers of the club.

The main item of business will be the election of officers for the coming season, measuring the players for uniforms and setting up by laws. All prospective ball players are urged to attend this meeting.

The officers elected will in turn invite the merchants of the village to a meeting to discuss ideas on the proposed baseball team.

Organizers of the team are pleased with the enthusiasm shown by local merchants and others who have offered financial assistance to bring baseball back to Ashville.

Local Bowlers Take Honors

The local Ramey Plasterers team made a fine showing by capturing the top team total and $100 in first prize money. Members of the team are George, James and Ralph Ramey, William Fowler and Mike Brown.

Bruce McKinney and Larry Dietrich, both local bowlers, topped the doubles category and top prize money in this class.

Walt and Bill Halstenberg, members of the local Mecca team, captured third in the doubles, good for $40. The Mecca keggers came in fifth in team events to win $50. The tournament was sponsored by the Lancaster Bowling Assn. The prize winners were honored with a steak dinner in Lancaster last week.

2 Ohioans Qualify For Senior Tourney

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—John Roberts of Columbus, Ohio, and Joseph Wells of East Liverpool, Ohio, are among 31 qualifiers in today's championship flight of the American Seniors Golf Assn. Tournament here.

Roberts fired a 77 and Wells a 79 in Monday's qualifying rounds. Entrants had to shoot 80 or better to make the top round.

Eighteen holes of match play are on schedule today and the title round will be played Saturday. The tournament is limited to golfers 55 years of age or older.

Red Schoendienst To Leave Hospital

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Red Schoendienst, popular second baseman of the Milwaukee Braves, was due to leave a tuberculosis sanitarium today after a four month stay.

He predicted he would be "bright and early" for 1960 spring training work.

"I feel like I'd be able to put a uniform on by the end of this season," said Schoendienst, whom many consider the top fielding second baseman of modern times. He added with a grin, "but if my doctors say no, I won't do it."

The latter comment is indicative of Red's philosophy since being stricken with tuberculosis, his doctors say. He was known as a model patient at Mount St. Rose Sanitarium.

Plain talk to the man who thinks "all cars are built alike today"

J. EMMET JUDGE

This is far from being the case. I can name at least 30 basic differences in the design of our '59 Mercury. Naturally, we feel these differences make Mercury a better car. For example:

EXTRA STRENGTH STARTS WITH THE FRAME

The backbone of every Mercury is the frame. We use a heavy box-type construction—the heaviest in the industry. Competitors use frames that are up to 125 pounds lighter.

WE BUILD QUALITY YOU CAN SEE

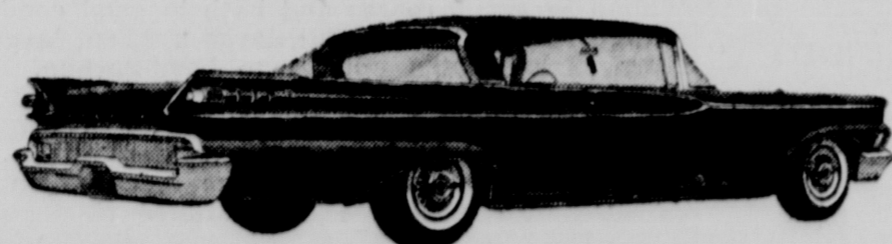

Compare the way Mercury builds engine hoods. Most competitive cars use what is known as a single-panel construction. This type of hood can be twisted and turned with the slightest pressure—often flutters and vibrates when the car is in motion. At Mercury, on the other hand, we use a double-panel construction—two layers of steel with the insulation sandwiched in between. Not only is Mercury's hood more rigid, but it looks better.

YOU FEEL THE QUALITY WITH EVERY STOP...

Mercury brakes are the largest in the field—with up to 22% more brake lining than competitive cars. And only Mercury in its field has brakes that adjust themselves mechanically. You save money by eliminating periodic adjustments. And you are safer because Mercury brakes stay properly adjusted for the life of the linings.

...AND EVERY TIME YOU TAKE THE WHEEL

Major League Prospects

Chisox Say This Is Their Big Year

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Al Lopez, who has finished second to the Yankees in seven out of the eight years he has been a big league manager, thinks this may be the year his Chicago White Sox will finally beat New York to the wire.

He thought so last year, and the year before, and the year before that, etc. He was right only in 1954 when his Cleveland Indians had to play at a record-breaking pace to top the Yankees' 103 victory total.

"I think we'll give the Yankees a better run this time," the personable Lopez said. "They got off to a flying start and we did just the opposite last year. In May, they were a mile out in front and we were in last place. With it all, we gave them quite a scare."

Lopez firmly believes his club is better than it was last year and he is willing to make a sporting wager the White Sox won't get off to the same miserable start.

"I think we have more power and I'm sure we have better pitching," he said. "Jim Wilson has retired but Barry Latman will more than make up for him. He pitched well for us in the tail-end of the season last fall and he's big, strong and cocky."

Latman joins veterans Billy Pierce (17-11), Dick Donovan (15-14) and Early Wynn (14-16) as the club's big four. Ray Moore, Bob Shaw, Gerry Staley, Don Rudolph and Tom Quatlers round out the staff.

"For the first time in years the White Sox have three outfielders who conceivably can play every day," Lopez said. "Jim Landis, in center, is now an established star. He was hitting 180 last July but hit around 350 after that."

"Al Smith, our right-fielder, was bothered by a bad leg all last year. He now is sound and has looked good. Johnny Callison is our left fielder. He has had less than two years experience and he's only 19 but we think he will hit."

With Sherm Lollar heading a three-man catching staff that will include Earl Battey and either John Ramono or Les Moss, Lopez has no problems there.

Cleveland Indian Hopes Rest With Many Youthful Players

Training camp observers have been particularly impressed by the fact that the Cleveland Indians' hopes for success in 1959 and the future rests with many youthful players.

At one time or another in the past few weeks, the Tribe's camp has been visited by Roy Hamey of the New York Yankees, Hollis Thurston of the Chicago White Sox, Jack Tighe and Marvin Owen of the Detroit Tigers, Buster Mills of the Kansas City A's, Babe Herman and Jim Gallaher of the Philadelphia Phillies and Birdie Tebbets of the Milwaukee Braves to name just a few.

Each of these men has indicated that in his opinion, the young stars of the Indians compare favorably with those of just about any major league club and a check of the club's roster would bear this out.

The backbone of the pitching staff, excluding the veteran Cal McLish, is composed of 22-year-old Gary Bell, 23-year-old Jim Grant and 25-year-old Herb Score.

No club in baseball can point to such a trio of impressive hurlers who should be the nucleus of the Tribe staff for the next decade.

One of the highlights of the camp has been the particularly excellent pitching of several of the young hurlers, most of whom aren't even yet on the Cleveland roster. Dick Stigman, 23-year old southpaw who was elevated to Cleveland from Mobile, has been very impressive and is accorded a fine chance of sticking.

Larry Locke, Jim Perry and Bob Allen, who probably are a year away, have sparked in several tribe exhibitions and this trio plus the Bell-Grant-Score combine should assure the club formidable mound work for the future.

The Indians are well set with youngsters behind the plate as Russ Nixon and Dick Brown, each 24-years old, will figure to handle the major share of the Tribe's catching duties.

The Tribe does not have an abundance of youth in the infield although the drafted Ray Webster, Woodie Held and Billy Moran figure to be key performers either this season or next. So does Gordon Coleman, just out of the Army.

Rocky Colavito, shining star of the outfield corps, is still only 25 years old and while Minnie Minoso, Jim Miersall and Larry Doby are seasoned performers, there are enough youngsters on the roster like Carroll Hardy, Dale Ben-neth and Don Dillard to be ready when any of these veterans should slip.

Looks Like Yanks To Keep Tom Sturdivant

Hope Of Senators Fades as He Helps Shut Them Out, 5-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Erase one pitcher from the possible list of Washington Senators starters.

The name is Tom Sturdivant. He wears blue pin stripes and has a big "NY" on the front of his uniform.

The experts had him figured a cinch Senator by opening day April 9, but Monday he pitched like a Yankee should and it now appears he'll be staying in New York come cherry blossom time.

Sturdivant was one of four Yankee right-handers who combined in a 5-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles at Miami. It was the first spring shutout for the Yanks.

Sturdivant hardly looked like one of the expendables the Yanks reportedly have been using as trade bait for a front-line Washington pitcher.

The 6-1 Yankee, who finished 1958 in Manager Casey Stengel's doghouse, allowed only two hits in five innings. He walked three and struck out one. Both hits came in the same inning, but a double play ball got him out of trouble.

Another Yank with his job on the line, veteran pitcher Virgil Trucks, followed Sturdivant and pitched goose eggs for two innings.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, hung a 10-6 defeat on Milwaukee, its 10th in 13 games. Lew Burdette gave up six runs and Bob Rush the other four, all in the big Dodger seventh.

The Detroit Tigers, finally getting both pitching and hitting under their fourth in a row, 15-5, over Cincinnati at Lakeland. Harvey Kuenn, Al Kaline, Frank Bolling and Rocky Bridges combined for 13 of the Tigers' 19 hits.

The Philadelphia Phillies came up with an impressive rookie performance as 19-year-old Ed Keegan permitted St. Louis only one run in five innings, but it took a pinch grand slam homer by 38-year-old Dave Philley before St. Louis was beaten 9-5 at St. Petersburg.

Turk Lown, Don Rudolph and Bob Shaw combined in a six-hitter for the Chicago White Sox as the Chicago scored five runs in the first two innings off Kansas City starter Walt Craddock. The 8-5 Chicago victory was the first taste of major league ball for Hollywood, Fla.

The Chicago Cubs, San Francisco, Boston, Cleveland, Washington and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Ashville Baseball Meeting Is Called

The Ashville Baseball club will hold a pre-season meeting Thursday at 7 p. m. at the Ashville Council house according to Orville Ruh, one of the organizers of the club.

The main item of business will be the election of officers for the coming season, measuring the players for uniforms and setting up by laws. All prospective ball players are urged to attend this meeting.

The officers elected will in turn invite the merchants of the village to a meeting to discuss ideas on the proposed baseball team.

Organizers of the team are pleased with the enthusiasm shown by local merchants and others who have offered financial assistance to bring baseball back to Ashville.

Cleveland Indian Hopes Rest With Many Youthful Players

Training camp observers have been particularly impressed by the fact that the Cleveland Indians' hopes for success in 1959 and the future rests with many youthful players.

At one time or another in the past few weeks, the Tribe's camp has been visited by Roy Hamey of the New York Yankees, Hollis Thurston of the Chicago White Sox, Jack Tighe and Marvin Owen of the Detroit Tigers, Buster Mills of the Kansas City A's, Babe Herman and Jim Gallagher of the Philadelphia Phillies and Birdie Tebbets of the Milwaukee Braves to name just a few.

Each of these men has indicated that in his opinion, the young stars of the Indians compare favorably with those of just about any major league club and a check of the club's roster would bear this out.

The backbone of the pitching staff, excluding the veteran Cal McLish, is composed of 22-year-old Gary Bell, 23-year old Jim Grant and 25-year old Herb Score. No club in baseball can point to such a trio of impressive hurlers who should be the nucleus of the Tribe staff for the next decade.

One of the highlights of the camp has been the particularly excellent pitching of several other young hurlers, most of whom aren't even yet on the Cleveland roster. Dick Stigman, 23-year old southpaw who was elevated to Cleveland from Mobile, has been very impressive and is accorded a fine chance of sticking.

Larry Locke, Jim Perry and Bob Allen, who probably are a year away, have sparkled in several tribe exhibitions and this trio plus the Bell-Grant-Score combine should assure the club formidable mound work for the future.

The Indians are well set with youngsters behind the plate as Russ Nixon and Dick Brown, each 24-years old, will figure to handle the major share of the Tribe's catching duties.

In Memoriam

Broken is the family circle
Our dear one is passed away
Passed from earth and earthly darkness
Into a bright and perfect day
But we all must cease to languish
O'er the grave of him we love
Strive to be prepared to meet him
In the better world above.

We wish to express our many thanks and appreciation to Dr. Hoyer and
Dr. Schmitt for their kind and efficient hospitality, the Rev. Raymond Varnell, the sister, Mrs. J. E. Deffenbaugh, for home and the many thoughtful and kindness during the recent illness and death of our beloved husband and father, Manuel Mumaw.

Cardinals Could Fly High If Pitching Comes Through

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Association
Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — In the last 10 years the St. Louis Cardinals, once the scourge of the National League, have had seven different managers, the latest being Solly Joseph Hemus, whose last employment was as an infielder with the Phillies.

Throughout his playing career his only goal, it says here, was victory and certainly it still is, now that he has taken over the fifth-place Cardinals.

In between his appearances here as a player with his "B" squad, Solly, a real friendly soul, will tell you that "I am very optimistic about this ball club for I know I have some good baseball players for a nucleus."

"My real problem," he continued, "is the pitching. We need some power in right field. I have some very fine young pitchers we're looking at but whether they come through is the big question. If they do, we'll be right up there."

Hemus, who was a solid lead-off man for the Red Birds when he was here before, continued leading off with: "I think our infield is as good as any in the league and we have some power here, too."

The infield Solly was talking about includes Joe Cunningham at first, Ken Boyer at third, Don Blasingame and Alex Grammas in the middle with Billy Harrell from Cleveland ready to move in and George Crowe, from Cincinnati, filling in at first.

Stan Musial, the one and only, will be in the left field spot and not around first base. Irv Noren or Gino Cimoli (from the Dodgers) probably will hold down one of the other spots with a big fight set for right field where there are a number of candidates.

In the battle for right field are Curt Flood, the speed merchant who came over from the Reds; Ellis Burton, who hit .286 at Houston; Gene Oliver, a power hitter who played with Rochester last year and is listed as a catcher-first baseman; Chuck James, who hit .278 at Houston, and Gene Green, a catcher who may be moved to right field.

Green, selected as the rookie of the year in 1958 by St. Louis writers, started last season as an outfielder, but took over the regular catching job in mid-season. He had a fine year, too, hitting .281. Hal Smith will do the catching if Green is moved to the garden.

The Cardinals' pitching staff is headed by Wilmer Mizell, Sam Jones and Larry Jackson, with Lindy McDaniel, a 15-game winner in 1957, back again. He was optioned to Omaha after he had experienced some control trouble. Lindy had to have an appendectomy on the way to camp and is taking it easy now. Sal Maglie and Marv Grissom give the Cardinals two bullpen specialists but more front-line pitching help is needed.

Hemus expects to get pitching help from Ernie Broglio, who split last season with Phoenix and Toronto; Gary Blaylock, who won 14 at Rochester, and Dick Ricketts, who copped 15 decisions at Rochester.

Among the newcomers who will get a good look on this club is Julio Gotay, a rookie shortstop who has the makings to be a good one. To help him along Marty Marion, now owner of the Houston club, is working with him and there can be no better teacher than "Mr. Shortstop."

Morrow Says He's Stalling For Big Sprint

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Olympic sprint champion Bobby Morrow has been running 9.3 hundreds but he says he isn't at his peak.

He doesn't want to be — he's saving that for the big meets like the National AAU, the United States-Soviet Union dual meet and the Pan-American Games.

Morrow was timed in 9.35 at Odessa, Tex., Saturday when he beat his arch rival, Dave Sime of Duke, in a special 100-yard dash that evened their sprint series. Each has beaten the other twice.

"If I'd known they were going to time like that—you can't time in the hundreds — I wouldn't have run," said Morrow. "I guess that's the only place in the world where they do that."

He said since he was timed past 9.3 it had to be 9.4, and that Sime was given a time of 9.4. "We weren't that close," said Morrow. Anyway, Morrow is aiming at his next appearance — a special 100-meter dash at the Texas Relays in Austin April 4. He won that even in the Olympics of 1956. He has been timed in 10.2 for the 100 meters.

Morrow is ineligible for the relay meets because he has finished his college athletic eligibility and has to appear only in special races. He'll do the same at the Drake Relays.

He also is planning to run at Salt Lake City and the Coliseum and Modesto Relays in California.

Educator Cites Need For Smaller Colleges

CLEVELAND (AP)—Despite a trend toward mass education, there is still a great need for small liberal arts colleges, the president of Lake Erie College says.

Paul Weaver, president of the girls college in Painesville, expressed his opinion Monday as the college announced a fund drive to collect two million dollars for a new science building, infirmary, a theater and arts center, and modernization of part of college hall and the power plant.

100 Persons Chosen To Serve On Petit and Grand Juries

The Pickaway County Jury Commission Friday drew names of 100 persons from the jury wheel for service on the April 1959 term of the County Grand Jury and petit juries.

Kinsey Report Is Made for Japanese Too

TOKYO (AP)—Japan is a nation of philandering husbands and faithful wives, a local Dr. Kinsey reported today.

Prof. Shinichi Asayama of Osaka Municipal University estimated that 60 to 70 per cent of all Japanese husbands have sex relations with women other than their wives, but less than 8 per cent of the wives are unfaithful.

"Japanese husbands, compared to American husbands, are five times safer as far as their wives' fidelity is concerned," he said.

The 51-year-old geneticist published his findings in the leading woman's magazine "Fujin Koron" (Women's Forum) after questioning 257 married women and 182 husbands. The magazine devoted a special issue to "The Problem of Men."

Asayama also surveyed 4,838 unmarried men and 1,200 single working girls between the ages of 20 and 30. The incidence of sexual experience among the men ranged from 20 per cent of the 20-year-olds to 75 per cent of the 30-year-olds. Nonvirginity among the women increased from 18 to 28 per cent.

Of the unmarried men, said Asayama, "The rate was lowest among young bank employees. Perhaps their occupation made them as solid as their banks' safes."

He attributed the widespread infidelity among married men to three things: (1) the traditional system of marriages arranged by parents; (2) widespread tacit approval of prostitution; and (3) the training traditionally given respectable Japanese girls which "makes them technical wives and mothers but fails to develop women with the ability to respond positively to the manly desires of their husbands."

Fadiman Cool On Idea of Bull Sessions

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—A bull session on the arts at Miami University Monday prompted Clifton Fadiman, New York author and critic, to remark he didn't think much of bull session on the arts.

Fadiman, one of six experts in various fields here for a round-table discussion, said he thinks it a mistake to take the temperature of arts all the time.

Millard Sheets, director of the Los Angeles Art Institute, said he doubts if the public yet knows the difference between good and bad art.

And Richard Neutra, Los Angeles Architect, said his field is more of a mass art since it involves providing shelter for people for part or all their lives.

John Ciardi, poetry editor of the Saturday Review, and Halsey Stevens, composer and faculty member of the University of Southern California, also took part in the session.

The discussion was part of Miami's sesquicentennial celebration.

2 Men Held In Probe of Car Thefts

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two men were in custody today and the FBI had warrants for three others in connection with a five-state auto theft ring.

Held at county jail were James R. Peterson, 25, of Atlantic Beach, Fla. and Richard E. Hammond, 27. Both were arraigned Monday before U.S. Commissioner H. A. Horn on charges of transporting stolen cars in interstate commerce.

Charles L. Staten, 33, of Columbus, was named in a similar warrant. The FBI said it expected his arrest shortly.

Charged with conspiracy to carry out plans of the ring were James A. Duvall, 35, owner of the Hickory Restaurant in Painesville, and John J. Paul, 20, of Painesville. Duvall is ill and will be taken into custody when he recovers, the FBI said. Paul is in Ashtabula County jail for attempting to steal a car.

The FBI said the men stole cars, counterfeited registration papers, and then sold them. The ring's operation covered Ohio, Tennessee, Florida and New York.

Willie Shoemaker won 300 races in 1958 to lead the riders.
